Retail butter demand continues to be strong or steady throughout the nation. Food service demand varies from strong to steady in the West region, but food service demand is unchanged in the East and Central regions. Cream loads are generally available across the country to meet most needs. However, industry participants indicate cream volumes are tightening. Butter manufacturers convey strong to steady production schedules in reference to retail lines. Regarding bulk lines, some manufacturers convey production is lighter. Unsalted bulk butter loads are somewhat tight. Bulk butter overages range from 1 to 10 cents above market, across all regions.
