Direct Hay Weighted Average Report for week ending 4/25/2025

Compared to last week all reported hay sales sold steady. Demand was mostly light to instances moderate. Sellers are starting to let go of some tonnage since new crop will be here before we know it and they all need space in hay barns for the 2025 product. Some producers still have some 2023 sitting around the farm. Per NASS, week ending April 19, sugar beets planted is at 33% completed compared to 35% for last year. Corn planted is at 1% compared to 3% last year. Barley emerge is at 27% compared to 41 last year. Few reports of some sprinkles or very light rain across different areas from visiting with hay producers.
