The price ranges for both acid and rennet casein were unchanged this week. Demand for acid casein is steady in Oceania. Contacts report demand from purchasers in other regions has continued to soften. Acid casein inventories remain tighter in Oceania. Stakeholders say seasonally light milk output is contributing to light acid casein production in the region. Contacts report processors in South America are starting to switch from rennet casein production to acid casein in the month of August. European contacts report demand for rennet casein is softening in the region, but interest is steady from purchasers in other regions. Spot loads of rennet casein are available for purchasing. European milk output is declining seasonally, contributing to lighter rennet casein production.
