Program Information
Introduction & Overview

AMS announced $97 million in availability for Fiscal Year (FY) 22 for the Local Agriculture Market Program. The intent is to provide a total of $130 million in American Rescue Planning Act funding FYs 2022 and 2023, providing $65 million each fiscal year.

LAMP includes the Farmers Market Promotion Program and Local Food Promotion Program (FMLFPP) ($57 million) and the Regional Food System Partnerships (RFSP) ($40 million). LAMP is authorized by the Agriculture Improvement Act of 2018 (Farm Bill). FMLFPP is appropriated $27 million and RFSP is appropriated $5 million annually through the Farm Bill. LAMP programs support the development, coordination, and expansion of direct producer-to-consumer marketing, local and regional food markets and enterprises, and value-added agricultural products. LAMP’s primary goals are to:

- Connect and cultivate regional food economies through public-private partnerships;
- Support the development of business plans, feasibility studies, and strategies for value-added agricultural production and local and regional food system infrastructure;
- Strengthen capacity and regional food system development through community collaboration and creating new market opportunities for value-added and niche products; and
- Improve income and economic opportunities for producers and food businesses through job creation.

For this Fiscal Year’s program, AMS received additional funding authorized under Section 1001(b)(4) of the American Rescue Plan (ARP) Act (Pub. L. No. 117—2), which provided funding to maintain and improve food and agricultural supply chain resiliency. Pursuant to this authority, USDA has distributed the funding between the Local Food Promotion Program (LFPP) and the RFSP to support farm to institutional markets, such as meal programs and cafeterias in university, hospital, or local, Tribal, or state government settings.

¹ On April 4, 2022, the federal government, including the USDA, will transition away from using DUNS numbers created through Dun & Bradstreet (D&B) as its entity identifier. To streamline and ease processes for entities doing business with the federal government, entities will use a Unique Entity Identifier created in SAM.gov. You can learn more about this transition on the GSA’s Unique Entity Identifier Update web page.

² Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) and Employer Identification Number (EIN) are defined as a nine-digit number that the IRS assigns to organizations. Key Messages: Local Agriculture Market Program (LAMP)

- USDA is investing $97 million in grants through the Local Agriculture Market Program (LAMP) that develop, coordinate, and expand producer-to-consumer marketing, local and regional food markets, and local food enterprises. LAMP was authorized in the Agriculture Improvement Act of 2018 (Farm Bill). This year, USDA is offering supplemental LAMP funding from the American Rescue Plan.

- AMS encourages applications that support smaller farms and ranches, new and beginning farmers and ranchers, socially disadvantaged producers, veteran producers, and underserved communities.

- Institutional markets, such as cafeteria and meal programs at colleges, universities, hospitals, and operations run by local, Tribal, and State governments, are located throughout the country. Collectively, these institutions buy billions of dollars in food each year. Working with partners to expand access to and local food purchasing creates new markets for small and mid-sized and socially disadvantaged producers located throughout the country.

- Local and regional food systems are part of a resilient food system. As pandemic-related disruptions showed, local and regional markets often adapted quickly to supply institutional needs. This additional funding builds on those adaptations by strengthening new market opportunities.

Farmers Market and Local Food Promotion Program

- The Farmers Market and Local Food Promotion Program (FMLFPP) supports farmers by creating targeted marketing capabilities, training on record keeping, pricing, family-friendly marketing and agri-tourism activities, and strategies to retain vendors and consumers. This year, $57 million is available to fund projects through FMLFPP.

- FMLFPP is implemented through two funding opportunities: the Farmers Market Promotion Program (FMPP) and the Local Food Promotion Program (LFPP).
• FMPP focuses on direct-to-consumer markets. LFPP focuses on intermediary regional food businesses that facilitate indirect to consumer markets. This year, $13.5 million in annual Farm Bill funding is available for FMPP projects.

• The additional $30 million in ARP funds being made available for LFPP projects, beyond the $13.5 million in annual Farm Bill funding. LFPP aims to promote competition and give more and better options to local and regional food producers selling to institutional markets. The funding aims to improve and expand opportunities among these food businesses in indirect producer to institutional marketing.

• Since 2006, FMLFP has invested $215 million across all 50 states and territories for 1,754 projects.

• Eligible entities include agricultural businesses and cooperatives, Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) networks and associations, food councils, economic development corporations, local governments, nonprofit and public benefit corporations, producer networks or associations, regional farmers’ market authorities, and Tribal governments.

• Grant recipients must provide a 25% cash or in-kind match of the Federal portion of the grant.

Regional Food Systems Partnerships

• The Regional Food Systems Partnerships (RFSP) funds partnerships that connect public and private resources to plan and develop local and regional food systems. This year, $40 million in funding is available to support projects through RFSP.

• An additional $35 million is being made available through the ARP, beyond the $5 million in annual Farm Bill funding, to promote competition and create more and better markets for local and regional food producers by expanding and strengthening opportunities to sell to institutions.

• Eligible applicants are partnerships that consist of at least one eligible entity and at least one eligible partner as detailed in the Request for Applications.

• Grant recipients of RFSP are required to provide a 25% cash match of the Federal portion of the grant.

Subject Line: $97 million in competitive USDA grant funding available in Fiscal Year (FY) 2022 to support local and regional food systems, including farm to institution projects

Body:

Great news for local and regional food systems! The USDA recently announced $97 million in competitive grant funding. These grants will help local and regional food entities develop, coordinate, and expand producer-to-consumer marketing, local and regional food markets and local food enterprises. Three programs are accepting applications: the Local Agriculture Market Program’s (LAMP) Farmers Market Promotion Program (FMPP), Local Food Promotion Program (LFPP), and Regional Foods System Partnerships (RFSP). The American Rescue Plan Act provided extra funding this year to expand and strengthen opportunities to sell to institutions, such as universities, hospitals, and settings operated by local, Tribal, and state governments.
