

AMS and the USDA Cattle & Carcass Training Center at Colorado State University will offer a training on

Animal Handling and Its Effect on Quality and Yield

Join us for this three-day course on animal handling and its effect on quality and yield factors, which features several live cattle demonstrations. AMS will provide updates on USDA's supply chain initiatives including an overview of USDA's Meat and Poultry Processing Capacity Technical Assistance Program. Guest speakers include representatives from USDA, Colorado State University, and the CME Group. Dr. Temple Grandin will provide keynote remarks.

March 28 - 30, 2023, at the Agricultural Research, Development and Education Center and the Global Food Innovation Center
