Specialty Crops Procurement Division

How to Bid on Offshore Orders
Introductions

- Cedric Hopkins - Agricultural Marketing Specialist, Vegetable and Pulses Branch (Canned Dried Beans)
- Claudius Price - Agricultural Marketing Specialist, Vegetable and Pulses Branch (Frozen Vegetables, Fresh Potato Products)
Program Overview

- Commodity Procurement Program purchases USDA foods that are delivered to not only the 48 contiguous states, but also its outlying states, Hawaii and Alaska, as well as its territories such as Puerto Rico, Guam and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

- These USDA foods support Food and Nutrition Service led programs including the National School Lunch Program and the Emergency Food Assistance Program.
Delivery Options

• Commodity Procurement offers two delivery options when soliciting for offshore deliveries.

• When submitting an offer your company can choose to bid to either port city or final destination, when available.
Bidding to Port City

• The USDA will designate a port city such as Jacksonville, Los Angeles, Seattle, etc. when shipping to an offshore location.

• If your bid to port city is accepted, your company is responsible for making a delivery appointment at the port and successfully delivering it to the specified port location.

• The USDA will handle booking the ocean carrier and final delivery from there.

• After your shipment is received at the port location you are able to submit an invoice through WBSCM and receive payment.
