Plant Variety Protection Office (PVPO) E-News, Issue 6 - July 2018

This newsletter provides updates about the PVPO team, helpful Plant Variety Protection (PVP) tips, and other valuable information that we are certain you will find useful.

The PVPO has launched a new system that can be used to make fee payments. The current methods of making payments by check and credit card will still be honored, but the new form available from www.pay.gov is a great way to make and manage payments to the PVPO for applications and services.

The image below is a snapshot of the system available to any PVPO customers and the public to make payments for services. This system can be used without accessing the electronic Plant Variety Protection (ePVP) System to make payments.
